ANTISEMITISM & ANTI-ZIONISM IN EUROPE

Since October 7

Executive Summary

- The findings of this report demonstrate a concerning rise in antisemitism and anti-Zionism in Europe since October 7, 2023, drawing on extensive data analysis of incidents, trends, online sentiments, and influential figures utilizing Open Source Intelligence (OSINT) methodologies.
 - Dramatic Increase in Sentiment: There has been a significant and consistent surge in both antisemitic and anti-Zionist sentiments across Europe, among both far-right and far-left groups. This more than 400% increase in hateful content is primarily linked to heightened anti-Israel sentiments following the country's response to the October 7 attacks.
 - Traditional Antisemitism: While the surge in sentiment correlates with growing anti-Israel sentiment, it has increasingly become intertwined with long-standing antisemitic stereotypes. Narratives suggesting that Jews exert disproportionate control, equating Jews with Nazis, or accusing them of genocidal intentions have become more prevalent.
 - Geographical Concentration: The most concerning developments have been observed in the UK, France, and Germany—countries with substantial Jewish populations. This trend underscores the heightened risks faced by these communities, both online and in physical spaces.
 - Influencers and Content Generators: The primary drivers of antisemitic and anti-Zionist content have been pro-Palestinian advocates (both politicians, groups, and influencers) who often employ antisemitic rhetoric to advance an anti-Israel agenda. This rhetoric seeks to delegitimize the state of Israel and its right to self-defense in the aftermath of the October 7 attacks.
- This report serves as a critical resource for understanding the contemporary landscape of antisemitism and anti-Zionism in Europe, highlighting the urgent need for awareness and action in combating these dangerous trends.

Report Introduction

Since the attacks on Israel on October 7, 2023, Europe has experienced a marked surge in both online and real-world antisemitism. This report aims to provide a detailed overview of the individuals, groups, trends, and incidents that have contributed to the rapidly shifting landscape of antisemitism across the continent.

In the wake of these events, more than 96% of Jews in Europe report encountering antisemitic sentiments in their daily lives, while the European Union Agency for Fundamental Rights (EU FRA) has recorded as much as a 400% rise in antisemitic activities since the outbreak of the war¹.

The report is divided into four key chapters, each addressing a different aspect of antisemitism in the post-October 7 landscape.

- The first chapter explores prominent online actors, including those generating and amplifying antisemitic and anti-Israel narratives across digital platforms. These individuals, groups, and influencers play a critical role in shaping public opinion, spreading harmful ideologies, and fueling online hate speech.
- The second chapter examines key trends in online antisemitism, particularly focusing on social media dynamics and the increasing use of such platforms to promote both anti-Jewish and anti-Israel sentiment since the conflict began.
- In the third chapter, the report looks at 10 major antisemitic incidents, highlighting violent attacks and hate crimes that have occurred across Europe.
- Finally, the fourth chapter analyzes antisemitic and anti-Israel groups and organizations that have emerged since October 7, though not necessarily as a direct result of the war.

For the purposes of this report, antisemitism is explored as the expression of ideas, beliefs, and actions that promote hostility, prejudice, or hatred toward Jews. This includes the propagation of conspiracy theories that blame Jews for global problems or portray them as wielding undue influence.

The report also addresses anti-Israel sentiments, which refer to criticism that crosses the line into delegitimization, disproportionate condemnation, comparisons to Nazism, or the call for the destruction of the State of Israel. While legitimate criticism of Israeli policies is not classified as antisemitism, the report distinguishes between balanced critique and those perspectives that are grounded in bias and hostility.

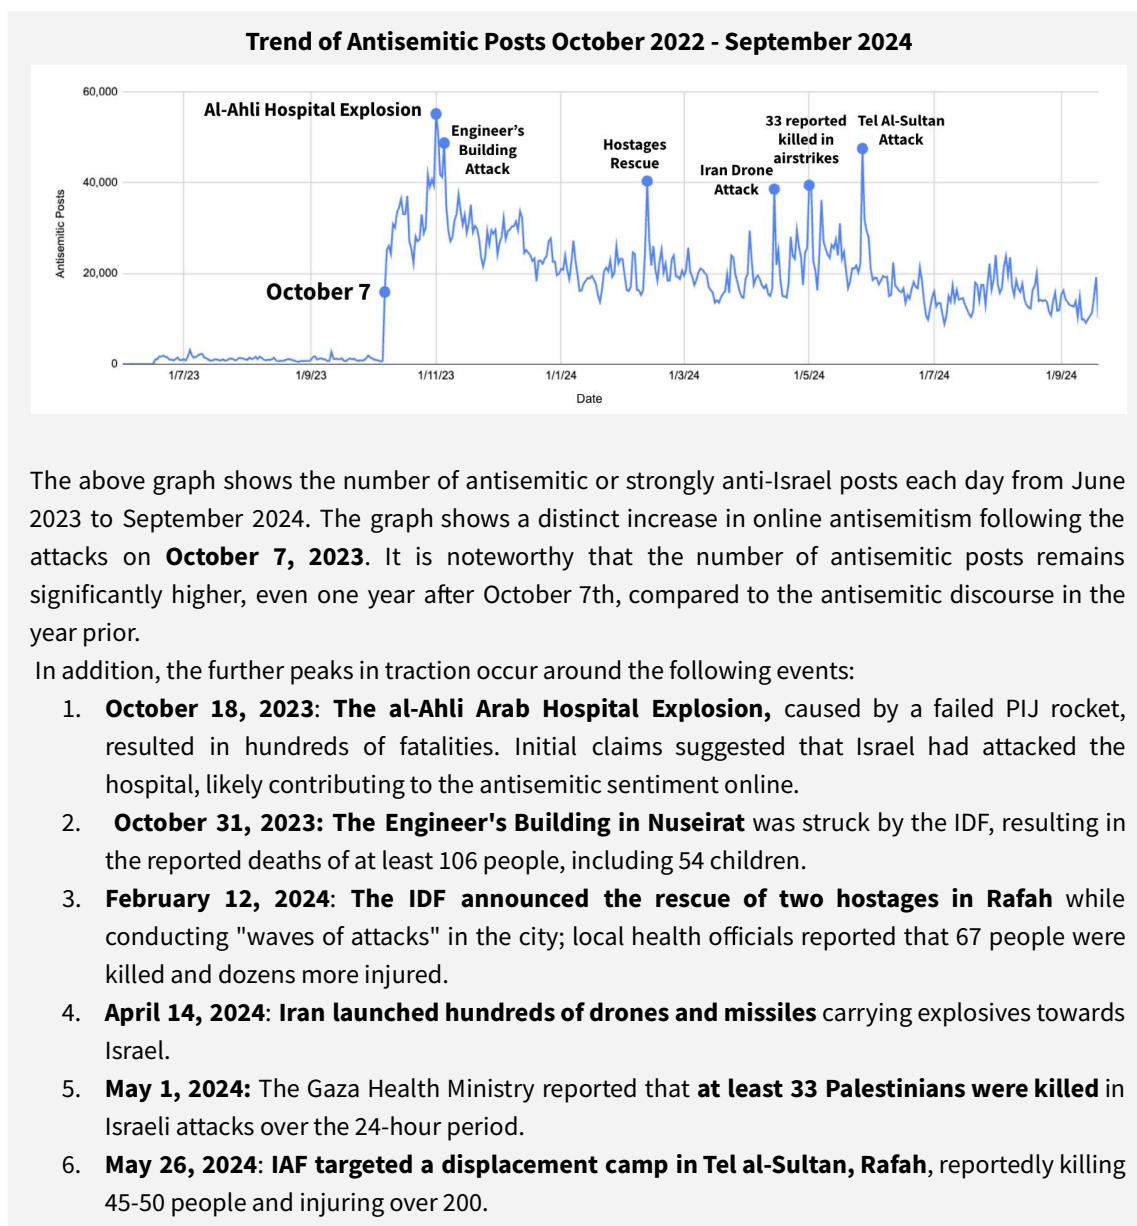

It is important to note that the scope of this report is limited to Europe, including non-EU countries, but it does not cover Turkey, Russia, Belarus, or Ukraine. The exclusion of these countries is due to the unique geopolitical conditions that complicate the analysis of antisemitism within their borders and the lack of reliable data to provide an accurate assessment.

Online Trends in Antisemitism/Anti-Israel Sentiment

The below numbers show various trends in online antisemitism and anti-Israel sentiment in Europe since October 7. The data was found through complex queries to uncover relevant posts on X (formerly Twitter), which was employed as a case study to show the changes in online activity and the geographical centers of that activity.

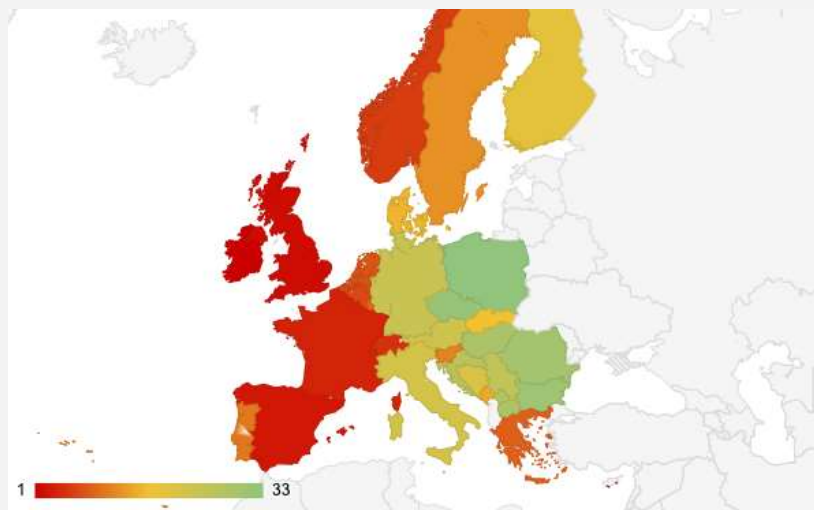

Number of Antisemitic/Anti-Israel Posts by Country

The above graph shows the total number of antisemitic or anti-Israel posts by country. The UK has the most posts (almost 2.5 million), followed by Spain (1.3 million) and France (1.15 million).

Number of Antisemitic Posts by Country Per Capita

The above graph shows the total number of antisemitic or anti-Israel posts by country per capita. Ireland was the country that had the most posts of concern, followed by the UK, Spain, France, and Switzerland.

High-risk countries based on Antisemitic/anti-Israel posts compared to Jewish population

Country	Jewish Population	Antisemitic Posts	Assessed Online Risk	Physical Incident Risk ²
UK	312,000	2,490,264	Very High Risk	Very High Risk
France	440,000	1,155,067	Very High Risk	Very High Risk
Germany	125,000	308,695	High Risk	Very High Risk
Spain	13,000	1,307,001	High Risk	Medium Risk
Italy	26,900	268,320	High Risk	Medium Risk
Netherlands	29,700	212,014	High Risk	Medium Risk
Belgium	29,000	144,446	High Risk	High Risk
Switzerland	20,500	128,735	Medium Risk	Medium Risk
Sweden	14,900	88,056	Medium Risk	Medium Risk
Ireland	2,700	248,145	Medium Risk	High Risk

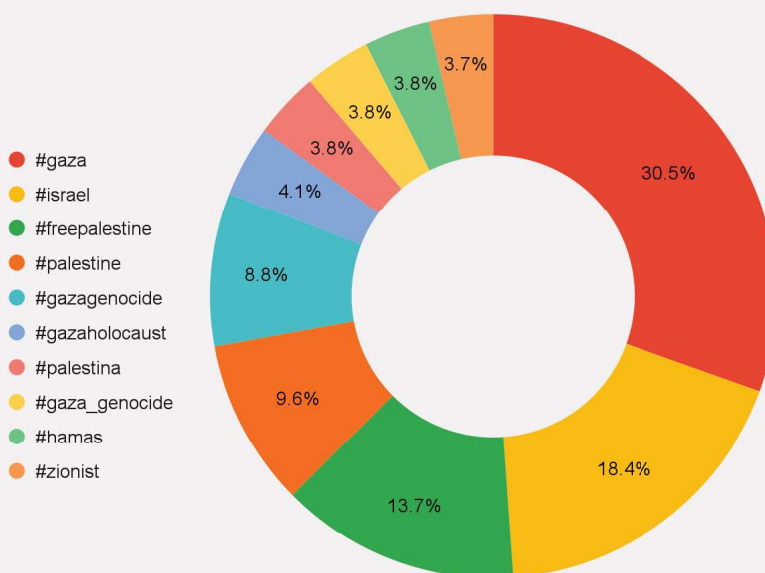

- The above graph can be used as a basic metric to measure which Jewish communities face the most significant risk of antisemitism.
- Using a calculation that compared the number of antisemitic or anti-Israel posts to the size of the Jewish population³ we ranked the top 10 countries by highest risk to the Jewish population.
- Each country received an internal “Risk Score” based on two variables: the number of antisemitic posts since October 7, and the Jewish population in that country. This allowed us to analyze which Jewish communities are most exposed to the threat of online antisemitism.
- Countries marked as “Very High Risk” were those that had both a relatively high Jewish population and a high number of antisemitic comments. Those with “High Risk” or “Medium Risk” may have had relatively lower numbers of antisemitic comments or relatively lower Jewish populations.

² Based on number of antisemitic incidents reported in the country since October 7

³ The calculation was reached by assessing the number of problematic antisemitic or anti-Israel posts by the country's Jewish population, in order to illustrate the potential likelihood that Jewish individuals may come across antisemitic or anti-Israel sentiments.

Most frequently used hashtags alongside antisemitic/anti-Israel online posts

The above graph displays the most used hashtags alongside problematic antisemitic or anti-Israel posts online. In addition to various common hashtags, #gazagenocide, #gaza_genocide, and #gazaholocaust stand out as highly problematic hashtags coming in 5th, 6th, and 8th place respectively totalling 16.7% of the top 10 most used hashtags.

Methodology

1. Defining Key Figures

- A. Generators: Defined as individuals holding public office or those directly influential in the political sphere.
- B. Influencers: Defined as individuals with no formal roles but who exert significant influence online.

2. Data Collection

We gathered a broad dataset comprising hundreds of generators and influencers by employing the following strategies:

- A. Keyword Searches: We conducted searches using terms related to Israel, Jews, Zionism, and antisemitic sentiment across social media platforms and relevant websites.
- B. Secondary Sources: We utilized existing studies, reports, and news articles to identify individuals known for antisemitic or anti-Zionist positions.
- C. Internal Databases: Where available, we accessed proprietary data monitoring hate speech and political sentiment.
- D. Manual Online Searches: We identified key accounts and individuals through direct observation of online communities and social media networks.

3. Categorization by Influence

Each individual was categorized based on their level of influence, which included:

- A. Social Media Influence: The number of followers, frequency of engagement (likes, shares, comments), and reach on social media platforms such as X, Facebook, Instagram, and YouTube.
- B. Political Influence (for Generators): The extent of political clout, ability to influence policy or public opinion, and connections to governmental entities.
- C. Other Intangibles: Access to traditional media (e.g., appearances on news channels), influence public opinion, and prominence in specific communities.

4. Content Cross-Referencing

We then cross-referenced the influence metrics with the content produced by these individuals, focusing on:

- A. Frequency of Posts: How often they commented on or posted about Israel, Zionism, and Jews.
- B. Concerning Content:
 - a. Calls to Action: Incitement to protest, violence, or organized action against Israel or the Jewish community.
 - b. Traditional Antisemitism: Use of historical antisemitic tropes, hate speech, or derogatory remarks about Jews.
 - c. Anti-Establishment Views: Criticism of established governments or policies, often coupled with conspiratorial or extreme rhetoric.

- d. Support for Terrorist Groups: Direct or indirect expressions of support for organizations recognized as terrorist entities.
- e. Justification of Violence: Endorsement or rationalization of violence against Jews or Israel.

- Aymeric Caron is a politician and former journalist, representing the 18th constituency of Paris in the National Assembly since 2022 as a member of the Ecological Revolution for the Living (REV). He serves as vice chair of the Israel-France Parliamentary Friendship Group but boycotted a scheduled diplomatic trip to Israel organized by the French Parliament²³.
- Caron has supported sanctions on Israeli sports in the Olympics similar to those imposed on Russia and Belarus²⁴. He is also a supporter of BDS²⁵ and urged the Paris Public Prosecutor to take legal action against France's Chief Rabbi, accusing him of defending "war crimes in Gaza" during an interview²⁶.

Examples

"Pretending that nothing is happening in Gaza today is absolutely scandalous for a country like ours, which claims to be the homeland of human rights."

Russian and Belarusian athletes will be present at the Paris Olympics, but will compete under a neutral banner. The IOC has chosen a double standard by not applying the same rule to Israeli athletes, at a time when the Israeli army is multiplying war crimes and crimes against humanity in Gaza (50,000 officially dead and missing, many more in reality) and while children are massacred there every week.

However, the Olympic Games would have been an opportunity to send a strong message for peace, and that is also their role.

Major Antisemitic/Anti-Israel Attacks in Europe Since October 7

Top Violent Antisemitic/Anti-Israel Incidents

- This chapter presents a list of the ten most severe antisemitic incidents that have occurred in Europe since October 7, as of the time of writing. These incidents are categorized into three groups based on the potential or actual harm caused:
 - Incidents that could have or did harm a large number of people or communities
 - Incidents that could have or did harm a small number of people or families
 - Incidents that could have or did harm an individual
- While hundreds of antisemitic incidents have been reported across Europe, including acts of vandalism and online hate, this list focuses on the most severe cases that posed a direct physical threat.
- Of these top ten incidents, five took place in France, two in Germany, two in the UK, and one in Switzerland. Notably, despite the frequency and severity of these attacks, no fatalities have been reported in connection with antisemitic violence in Europe since October 7.

Geographic Distribution of Reported Antisemitic Incidents in Europe since October 7, 2023¹²⁰

¹²⁰ The graph only contains physical incidents of antisemitism that were publically reported

Methodology

1. Data Collection: To create a dataset, we utilized a multi-source approach, combining information from internal and external databases as well as news reports. The key steps in this phase included:

- A. Internal Databases: Researching proprietary databases that track antisemitic incidents, ensuring access to verified, detailed reports on events across Europe.
- B. Secondary Databases: Checking secondary sources such as governmental reports, non-governmental organization (NGO) databases, and international agencies specializing in monitoring hate crimes.
- C. News Sources: Reviewing major news outlets to ensure a wide-reaching coverage of events.

2. Defining and Categorizing Impact: To determine the most significant incidents, we categorized each based on its potential or actual harm, focusing on both physical damage and casualties.

The following categories were used to evaluate and rank the incidents:

- A. Incident could have or did harm a large number of people/community: This includes incidents where there was an actual or potential risk to large groups, such as attacks targeting public gatherings, synagogues, or Jewish neighborhoods. Events falling under this category involved large-scale violence or the threat thereof.
- B. Incident could have or did harm a small number of people/family: This captures incidents that endangered smaller groups or families, such as targeted harassment or physical assaults on smaller numbers of people or homes.
- C. Incident could have or did harm one person: Incidents where the threat or violence was directed at a single individual, for example, personal assaults or threats against specific members of the Jewish community.
- D. Incident could have or did damage a building or monument: This category encompasses acts of vandalism or attacks against Jewish buildings, monuments, or cultural heritage, which carry significant symbolic impact.

3. Final Ranking: The final top 10 list was determined by assessing each incident's overall potential or realized impact. Incidents were ranked by the number of people affected, the magnitude of physical or symbolic damage, and the level of danger posed to the broader Jewish community.

CAP does not have an official digital presence and it communicates via far-left media outlets such as The Left Berlin, where CAP is described as “a media initiative aiming to provide information about direct actions taking place in Berlin. This is in response to the wide-spread suppression of information about direct action in German media, in particular with regards to Palestine.”

Report Summary & Key Takeaways

- Significant Antisemitism in Western Europe: Jewish communities in countries such as the UK, France, and Germany are experiencing a marked rise in antisemitic incidents, both in physical spaces and online. The size of the Jewish population in these countries, combined with their prominence in the spread of antisemitic content online, makes them particularly vulnerable.
- Impact of Israel's Military Actions on Online Discourse: Israel's military actions in Gaza have emerged as a significant variable influencing online antisemitism over the past year. Specifically, we have seen a rise in antisemitic rhetoric following attacks that resulted in high levels of civilian casualties. Such incidents often trigger a surge of emotionally charged discussions on social media, where anger and hatred can quickly morph into scapegoating of Jewish communities worldwide.
- Role of Generators in Normalizing Antisemitic Claims: A number of major politicians continue to delegitimize Israel and Jews by drawing comparisons between Israel and the Nazis, normalizing such views and influencing public perceptions of Jews and Israel. While these politicians generally do not explicitly attack Jews as a group, they often use anti-Zionism to perpetuate antisemitic narratives, undermining the distinction between legitimate criticism and harmful rhetoric.
- Expansion of Extreme Activist Groups: Groups such as Palestine Action are gaining traction and visibility, promoting extreme actions that incite further antisemitism. Their activities often involve direct action and aggressive protest tactics that challenge established norms and escalate into acts of violence. A troubling phenomenon is the expansion of these groups from the UK to other countries in Europe, raising concerns about the emergence of increasingly violent pro-Palestinian factions. This trend poses a significant threat to the safety of Jewish communities and could lead to the formation of networks of violent groups across multiple regions.
- Post-October 7 Atmosphere and Future Implications: Since the events of October 7, the level of hostility observed is significantly higher than before, and even after a year, it has not diminished to previous levels. This enduring climate of hostility poses serious concerns about whether it will ever return to its former state. The long-term implications for Jewish communities remain uncertain and require close monitoring.
